

THE SHORT STORY I'm the Director of Technology for a digital agency in Memphis called Wunderman Thompson. In addition to team and project management, I am still hands on with design and development as well as some digital marketing. Thank you for taking the time to look over my resume and I look forward to connecting with you soon.

A LITTLE MORE

I've worked in a variety work environments. Everything from a small web design shop to creative agencies to corporate in-house to freelancing. I've had the benefit of working on a wide range of projects for print, web, identity, digital marketing, and video. Over the years, I've gained critical project management skills which enable me to easily establish scope, timeline, and budget for projects. I also enjoy leading teams during projects by keeping them motivated and engaged in the process.
