A LITTLE MORE

My experience is drawn from designing and developing in a variety work environments. Everything from a small web design shop to creative agencies to corporate in-house to freelancing. I've had the benefit of working on a wide range of projects for print, web, identity, digital marketing, and video with my primary focus in web. Over the years, I've gained critical project management skills which enable me to easily establish scope, timeline, and budget for projects. I also enjoy leading teams during projects by keeping them motivated and engaged in the process. Above all else; I'm a learner, always looking to expand my skills and knowledge to the benefit of my clients.
